

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys become diseased and blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Byers Invades England.
Eben M. Byers, the amateur golf champion of the United States, has gone to Europe to take part in the championship contest of the world, which will be held this year on the historic course of St. Andrews, Scotland, May 21 to 25.

Should he bring back the coveted laurels this fact will be a double bonus.

or, seeing that the battle will be fought over the links of St. Andrews, which present, so the best authorities think, more difficult problems than the southern course at Sandwich, over which Mr. Travis played.
Byers won his first golfing honors when at Yale and later represented the Allegheny Country club of Pittsburg. He was one of the "all east team" selected to meet the Oxford and Cambridge visitors.

SELECTIONS

A TALE OF THE TRAIL.

Thrilling Experience With Redskins and a Remarkable Escape.

Hundreds of interesting and thrilling incidents are told of life on the Santa Fe trail in the early days. Recently the Cleveland Plain Dealer contained an article concerning a driver on the stage between Leavenworth and Dodge City many years ago, James Bashford Scott, who relates a number of thrilling experiences. One of the most startling of Scott's experiences occurred in March, 1852. This is the story as he tells it:

"I left Fort Leavenworth one morning with a party of ten men and several hundred dollars in the stage. The horses were in excellent condition, and we covered the first twenty miles from the fort in less than two hours. We were making good across the plains when a roving band of Comanches came into sight. I knew that it meant fight, and I prepared the occupants of the stage for the encounter. They were nearly all army officers, and, although they realized that their lives were at stake, not one of them showed the slightest sign of fear. They calmly loaded their revolvers and waited for the attack. I left my seat and took my stand between the horses. The Indians were about fifty in number, and we knew that it probably meant death for us all. Still we determined to sell our lives as dearly as possible, and we did not fire until the band had closed in upon us.

"At least eight of the redskins fell from their horses at the first volley, but they were too many for us, and one by one the members of our party were killed. I received two bullets in the fleshy part of my arm, but kept on firing until I was struck down from behind. I heard one of the officers say, 'There goes Scotty,' and I remembered no more.

"When I came to, I was on a cot in the hospital at Fort Leavenworth. The doctor told me I had six bullet wounds and in addition had been scalped. It seems that a detachment of soldiers had come upon the bottled stage the day after the attack. The ten men were dead, scalped, all of them, but by some strange play of fate I was still alive. They buried me to Fort Leavenworth, where I was given the best medical care, and after several weeks my wounds healed. So far as I know, I am the only man who has survived the scalping knife."—Kansas City Journal.

The Women Cabbies of Paris.
When the Paris cab drivers attempted to make it impossible for half a dozen women to earn a living driving cabs in the city, the chivalrous Frenchmen went out of their way to bite the women drivers. They were readily distinguished at a glance by their uniform of a low crowned hat and a flowing cape. The women are doing a good business—so good, in fact, that certain men drivers, who have lost their trade have resorted to the trick of discarding their own tall hats and coats and adopting the women's cape and low hat. The passenger who hails them does not discover the masquerade of the driver till it is too late to send the man away without being laughed at by the people on the street. There is business enough so that the women, even with this unfair competition, continue to prosper.

Shotgun Photography.
Cameras on the wing are flying through Germany. A projectile to take photographs and claimed to have been successful at the height of half a mile is the idea of Herr Marie, a German photographer. A camera having the form of the usual kind of conical shell is thrown into the air by means of a kind of trap. At a predetermined angle, as the camera turns to make its descent and is pointed slightly downward, the shutter is automatically released and a picture is taken of a broad expanse of country. In still air the flight and spot at which the aerial camera will fall can be calculated with much precision. Precautions are taken to avoid damage by concussion, and the results are expected to be of great possible value in military operations.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

NEW YORK'S GOOD ACCOUNTING LAW

The New York legislature has enacted a public accounting law which is an outgrowth of the campaign vigorously conducted in Ohio in the interest of such a measure for this state. Ohio's law has been in effect for some years. The New York law reads:

Reports.—Every county, other than those comprising the city of New York, every city of the second and third classes, and every incorporated village, shall annually make a report of its financial condition to the comptroller. Such reports shall be made by the treasurers of the various counties, the comptrollers of cities of the second and third classes and the treasurers of villages, but if, for any reason, the comptroller shall deem it necessary that additional information be furnished by any other officer of the municipalities named herein, he may require such additional information from such other officer in such form as he may deem necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act. All reports shall be duly verified by the oath of the officer making the same and shall be filed with the comptroller within sixty days after the close of the fiscal year of such municipality. Every such officer shall also, within sixty days after the expiration of his term of office, or his resignation or removal therefrom, make a report to the comptroller of the financial condition of such municipal corporation on the date of the expiration of his term of office, or his resignation or removal from office, as the case may be. The refusal or willful neglect of such officer to file a report as herein prescribed shall be a misdemeanor.

Chief Accountant and Examiner of Accounts.—The comptroller shall appoint a chief accountant who, under his direction, shall be charged with the preparation of the forms of the reports required by the provisions of this act, the compilation of the comparative statistics and the inspection and examination of municipal accounts. He shall also appoint not to exceed ten examiners who shall be charged with the duty of inspecting and examining the accounts of such municipal corporations. The chief accountant shall receive a salary of not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars and his necessary traveling and other actual expenses; the examiners of accounts shall each receive when employed eight dollars a day and their necessary traveling expenses.

Uniform System of Accounts.—The comptroller may formulate and prescribe a system of keeping accounts, which system shall be uniform for each class of municipal corporations specified in section one of this act, and from time to time, whenever he shall deem it necessary, direct the installation of such system by any one or more of the municipal corporations comprising such class. Any officer of such municipal corporation who shall refuse or willfully neglect to comply with such direction of the comptroller within such reasonable time as the comptroller may prescribe shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The comptroller may, however, upon good and sufficient cause shown shall, extend such prescribed time as may be reasonable and necessary. The expense of installing a system of keeping accounts in pursuance of this section shall be paid out of such appropriation as shall be made now or hereafter to carry this act into effect.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

Nelson W. Evans of the Portsmouth Board of Trade, in an address before the Tax Commission of Ohio, said: Now what we want in this state is freedom of tax administration. What we need in Ohio is the repeal of the ad valorem tax provisions of the constitution. We do not need anything in its place, and would be better off with a simple and absolute repeal.

"We must get rid of that old phrase, 'Laws shall be passed taxing money, credits, bonds, stock and investments in joint stock companies, or otherwise; and also all real and personal property according to its true value in money.' That is the rule under which we can have no reform in taxation. No matter what other forms of taxation we have double taxation and sometimes quadruple taxation. It will be no trouble to repeal sec. 2 of Art. 12 of the constitution if both political parties agree to it. It has been productive of the most unjust and unequal system of taxation which ever afflicted any people. Today we are suffering the curse of this organic law. We can not compel the return of money; the taxation of credits is unjust and double taxation, and the taxation of stocks as such is double taxation.

MORTGAGE TAX.

New York has a mortgage recording tax law which has increased the revenue from mortgage taxation over the old system by 800 per cent and resulted in a reduction of interest rates. The principal virtue of the law is that its operation does not admit fraud, since a mortgage to be legal must be recorded, and to be recorded, must pay the tax. Small as the latter is in proportion to the 2 or 3 1/2 per cent formerly levied, it has increased the revenue because formerly more than 80 per cent of the mortgages escaped taxation altogether.

The New York Sun, reviewing the operation of the measure, reports that "the new law warded off a serious shortage of mortgage capital in this town during the latter half of last year. It will no doubt react before long on the rates of interest, bringing them back to the normal level of 4 per cent and 4 1/2 per cent, and perhaps establish them eventually at so low a rate as 3 1/2 to 4 per cent."—Dubuque (Ia.) Telegraph-Herald.

Private Caruso on Drill.
Enrico Caruso, the far famed tenor, when he was a youth of nineteen was drafted into the Italian army. His drill sergeant reported him to Major Mogliati for singing, but the major discovered something unusual in his voice and, after reprimanding the drill sergeant, promptly assigned Private Caruso to spend all the leisure that his military service allowed in study with the teacher of the regimental band.
